Labeler - How to - I want web-based labels. I have an SQL database that's accessed via my web page. I want to print barcodes for items in this database via a remote web browser.

Internal User - 2017-04-10 - Version 7

This article refers to obsolete products.

If your database is SQL then Labeler can print labels from it at the server side. If you want the label to be printable from a web page, we do not have software that can do that, but we do offer our eWasp and ActiveX/DLL products that might be integrated into software you right to work with your web server.