WaspTime v7: How can I override an automatic deduction?

Jason - 2020-05-19 - Version 7

Question: Our Group settings are configured to automatically deduct 1 hour from employees for lunch, without them punching out. If an employee works through lunch, is there a way to override the deduction and add the hour to their total?

Solution: There's not a way to directly override the deduction. What you can do is to add a new Absence type called Working Lunch, set to be Paid and Included in Overtime, with a duration of 1:00. Then in the Timecard view, click Absences on the toolbar, and select Working Lunch on the affected days, then click Add Absence.