WDT2200: How to include header files for functions used in an AppGen program node

Scott Leonard - 2017-04-10 - in Hardware

Please review the Help documentation in AppGen for the supported functions. There are built-in substitutes for many basic functions. For example: instead of using `clrscr()`, you would use the function `_clear_screen`. There are no prototypes of any kind that need to be created. There are also no header files that need to be included anywhere as they are included automatically.
